

2011.10. 24 Banciao District Prosecutors Office Press Release

The Voice You Raise, the Progress We Make:

The Second Meeting on Judicial Reform was held on Oct. 24, 2012

In order to take action on judicial issues, fill the gap and build the bridge with the hearts and minds of the people, a series of meetings on judicial reform is carefully planned by Banciao District Prosecutors Office (BDPO) this year. The second meeting was held on October 24th, at Sanchong & Luzhou Districts. Hosted by Chief Prosecutor Tsai Pi-Yu, and joined by head prosecutors Lin Je-Huei, Hsu Zhi-Ping, and Sun Zhi-Yuan, along with representatives of Sanchong District Office, Luzhou District Office, Sanchong Precinct and Luzhou Precinct, the meeting focuses on four subjects: “public awareness of the judicial system”, “the reform of legal aid”, “the improvement in legal education”, and “other issues of prosecution system”. All comments and opinions were carefully gathered and deeply concerned by BDPO. As Chief Prosecutor Tsai Pi-Yu decisively claims, judicial reform must be rooted in public aspirations. By holding the meetings, BDPO encourages the general public to speak freely about their expectations of judicial reform, and promises to listen without prejudice to those views with humbleness, diligence, and sincerity. BDPO hopes that through direct communications, mutual understanding will be reached, cooperation between society and government can be prompted, and efforts can be taken to move toward the goal of judicial reform.
